CNF is the Largest Software Developer in San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO 16 July 2018 – CNF is San Antonio’s Largest Software Developer. The San Antonio Business Journal released the 2018 list and recognized CNF as number one. In the last few years, CNF has repeatedly been recognized as one of San Antonio’s largest and fastest growing Cybersecurity Providers. Locally Headquartered in San Antonio, CNF continues to grow, providing numerous professional employment opportunities and further establishing the Alamo City as the hub for technology, innovation, and research and development. The demand for qualified software developers in the defense industry exceeds the city’s supply, despite San Antonio’s myriad of educational venues. Many times, candidates do not possess the appropriate security clearance, the years of experience, or the right certifications such as the Security+. Given the high demand, retention becomes an issue for employers seeking to retain qualified programmers. CNF has an impressive 92% retention rate since inception and allocates many resources to maintaining CNF’s employee-centric culture providing competitive salaries, excellent medical benefits, 401(k) matching, educational benefits, and continuous professional development opportunities. CNF also works with the local high schools and colleges to develop future programmers and cybersecurity professionals. Our scholarship and internship program provides students with hands-on, real-world experience preparing them for a career upon graduation. Qualified interns supporting customer operations are afforded sponsorship to a security clearance further preparing them for a career in the defense industry.
